

Homeowners Capitalize on Enterprise Electric's Expertise to Enhance Their Kitchen Remodel

Situation

A family in the Highlands was planning to remodel their kitchen. The project called for installing new cabinets, new counter tops, new lighting, and new appliances, plus introducing new features like a wine chiller.

Challenge

To maximize their budget and retain greater control, the homeowners decided to act as their own general contractor. This presented a number of challenges for them. For example, knowing which subcontractors to work with, designing the project so that it conformed to code, scheduling subcontractors in the proper sequence...all the while always keeping an eye on the budget.

Solution

The family chose Enterprise Electric as their electrical subcontractor, based on our reputation and low pricing.

Enterprise Electric's residential specialist, Mark Moncarr, worked with the family to ensure the final electrical design met their goals and complied with building codes.

Enterprise Electric began by removing the existing electrical infrastructure (called "safing off") so the other contractors could work safely. Once demolition was complete, Mark installed new outlets for the new/relocated appliances and the wine chiller. He also installed elegant recessed lighting in the ceiling and repositioned the phone jack.

"We are so grateful for the guidance and expertise that Enterprise Electric provided," report the satisfied homeowners. "Mark helped us avoid a number of pitfalls. He even was able to recommend a mechanical contractor when we weren't sure who to hire. We're really happy with the quality of work. We're so excited that our dream kitchen is now a dream come true."
